

Water Safety

Sadly, around 150 people lose their lives as a result of accidents at the coast each year, and we know that around half of those never intended to be in the water. This summer poses a greater risk as we brace for an especially busy period at our coastal and inland waterways.

RLSS: Free, online toolkit

RLSS UK has launched its online water safety toolkit - 'Lifesaver-Lifechanger' that aims to give the whole family the confidence to perform rescues and keep themselves and others safe around the water. Please share with your pupils. Click HERE to find out how to become a Lifechanger. #lifesaverlifechanger #EnjoyWaterSafely #lifechangingskills @rlssuk

The RNLI and our Search and Rescue partners help thousands of people in difficulty in, on or around the water when doing all types of activities. But we can't reach everyone, which is why we are asking you to help us share some important messages to children, their families and those who support their activities.

If you would like to find out more or have any questions about sharing the below, please contact me Anthony Jones at: Watersafety_West@rnli.org.uk

Water Safety

Step aboard!

Hi Teachers, Leaders & Youth Activity Supporters,

We've been living in very different times recently. More people than ever have been flocking to the coast for local staycations. At the Royal National Lifeboat Institution (RNLI), we've been busier too, launching to rescue more people in trouble by the water.

That's why I'm getting in touch on behalf of the RNLI's Water Safety Team to share how we can help everyone at your school, college, university or youth group keep themselves, their friends and their family safe around the water – from seas and streams to pools and ponds.

Take a look at our video to find out just how we can help deliver essential life skills to your school – and why they're more important than ever.
